

Year 2004

Sunday Island September 26, 2004 - Page 6

On 15th of September this year, Mrs. Samantha Pathirage hosted an opulent dinner dance at the Galle Face Hotel in celebration of the 6th anniversary of her migration consultancy service CAREER DEVELOPMENT CENTRE.

The gathering that celebrated the festive occasion was of a wide assortment ranging from dignitaries of private sector institutions to media professionals, friends and well-wishers to clients who have been successful candidates.

Mr. Lalith De Silva, Chairman of the Asia Hotel School and Mr. Rohan Nanayakkara, Chairman of Ceylon Carriers graced the evening as Guests of Honour. The opening address was made by Mr. Royce Weerasinghe, who graciously welcomed the guests on behalf of the hostess and briefed all present with a bit of general history and background of Mrs. Samantha Pathirage's establishment and its operations.

Mr. Weerasinghe in his lively words gave a description of what CDC has achieved up-to-date and hopes to graduate into under the direction and professionalism of its committed proprietor.

Mr. Weerasinghe, a member of Mrs. Pathirage's staff at the CDC, functions as the In-house lecturer/instructor to candidates who sit for the IELTS exam to qualify as applicants eligible for Student and Migration visas.

Located at 425/1, Havelock Road, Colombo 6, CDC is a front-runner amongst the numerous migration agents operating in Sri Lanka. Boasting of a wide spread client base from practically every corner of the Island, it has proved itself competent and furthermore, a reliable agent in fulfilling the different Visa requirements of its ever increasing clientele.

Being collaborators with overseas institutions such as FRENZ International in New Zealand, Community Development Services Australia, UK based NARIC and The International Chamber of Migration in Canada to name some of the more prestigious ones, CDC has become a resourceful establishment in a highly competitive arena.

Visa requirements today go beyond the average tourist or visit visa. Especially with the newly popularized and much sought after job visa applications for the regular student visa, for higher education and the permanent residents visa which are in constant need by many Sri Lankans. Applications of all these categories are carefully evaluated and processed by the CDC.

The carefully Designed Concept is a 'motto' like guide line, created by the crew at CDC, describing the approach taken by them in assessing a clients position and how to provide the best possible solution.

The latest service provided by the CDC to convenience hopeful migrants and students is the introduction of lectures for the IELTS examination which is now regarded as an almost mandatory qualification for perusal of studies in Britain. Participants for these lectures are in the able hands of Mr. Royce Weerasinghe, who joined the CDC as the agency's own Resident Instructor.

A more comprehensive picture of the services available and procedures involved can be gained through a visit to the company's website www.cdclanka.com.

A successful six years in the business with a commendable level of commitment and efficiency Mrs. Samantha Pathirage and her staff have come a long way, setting their sights on maintaining a consistent and stabilized level of growth in the years to come. The CDC seems confident in making the challenging climb to the very top in their respective sector.
